I have an animated GIF image on my website which looks like the following: How can I get the title of the image with JavaScript?

Thanks A: I think you can use this: `var img = document.querySelector('img'); var gifs = document.querySelectorAll('img.gif'); var title = gifs[0].getAttribute('title'); var duration = gifs[0].getAttribute('duration'); var startTime = gifs[0].getAttribute('start'); var endTime = gifs[0].getAttribute('end'); console.log(title, duration, startTime, endTime);` A: A more dynamic approach is to use an IMG tag (since it has a "title" attribute), if an tag exists. Otherwise, you can still use this method to get the first "gif" tag in the list. `// get image src and alt attribute from all "gif" tags on the page var gifs = document.querySelectorAll('img.gif'); if (gifs.length) { var title = gifs[0].getAttribute('title'); var duration = gifs[0].getAttribute('`
